THE ARTS COMMISSION
INSPIRING A VIBRANT TOLEDO

Celebrating over 60 years of arts leadership, The Arts Commission is a non-profit organization based in Downtown Toledo, Ohio. The Arts Commission's purpose is to develop and promote the visual, performing and literary arts in Northwest Ohio and Southeast Michigan. The organization's mission includes youth programming, and efforts that explore opportunities for economic development and revitalization.

The Arts Commission is the longest standing arts commission in the state of Ohio, developing and promoting the arts in the community since 1959. The organization has administered the City of Toledo's One Percent for the Art ordinance since 1977, which uses a percentage of public tax dollars to commission, acquire and maintain works of public art while educating the community about the importance of this extensive collection.

Toledo, Ohio manages over 80 works of public art. Much of this collection was developed through the efforts of involved citizens who enacted a 1977 ordinance. A percentage of public tax dollars enables the commission, acquisition, conservation and educational programs for public art in the community. Toledo was the first Ohio city to adopt such an ordinance and remains a leader in the field of public art.

The ABC's of Public Art, features artworks from the City of Toledo's One Percent for Art collection, which is administered by The Arts Commission through its Art in Public Places committee. There are also several works from other collections in Northwest Ohio.

Included in this publication are photographs of large-scale sculptures, murals and functional structures by noted artists from both our region and from around the world. These artworks are displayed in the downtown area and throughout many of Toledo's neighborhoods. We encourage you to explore this diverse collection, which has been acquired through the years from public, corporate and private support of the arts in Toledo, Ohio.
